“Following successful completion of the Barristers Training Course in 2022, Chloe became a County Court Advocate with LPC Law. In this role, she conducted advocacy in a diverse range of hearings including Civil Applications and Small Claims.

Before commencing her Pupillage, Chloe also gained extensive experience in Criminal Law, working as a Caseworker/Litigation Assistant in two Criminal Defence firms in the Midlands. During this time, Chloe was actively involved in a vast array of Crown Court cases, covering a broad spectrum of offences such as drug-related crime, violence, and sexual offences, among others.”
