Steven Attridge is an experienced senior junior counsel, with more than 30 years' worth of experience in the full spectrum of serious criminal cases. He is an exclusively criminal practitioner who prosecutes and defends in equal measure, both in and out of London.

He has led in matters of drugs supply and fraud.

His commitment to every case means that all clients receive a dedicated and high quality service. He has been complimented for his approach to victims and their families when prosecuting; when defending, he is known for his equally approachable manner.

He is regularly instructed to provide secondary advice on appeal against conviction and sentence.
